

Dwayne Bray

Journalist-at-Large

ESPN'S THE UNDEFEATED, CT

Award-winning reporter, editor and producer Dwayne Bray has been a journalist-at-large with ESPN's content initiative that explores the intersection of sports, race and culture, The Undefeated, since May 2019. Bray joined The Undefeated after 13 years in editorial management positions at ESPN, including a dozen years in charge of the network's television investigative team.

Prior to joining ESPN, Bray worked at the Dallas Morning News, first as the paper's sports editor and later as the metro editor.

Bray's journalism career includes serving as a news reporter covering the police beat at the Dayton Daily News and a courts beat at the Los Angeles Times.

Bray has been a lecturer or guest speaker at Arizona State University, the University of Mississippi, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Bowling Green State University, Kent State University, the University of South Carolina and Cleveland State University, from which he received his bachelor's degree in communication. He earned a master's degree in journalism from Ohio State University.